

1. Location: The episode takes place in Teahupoo, Tahiti, known for one of the heaviest waves in the world.
2. Sailing Condition: The crew navigates through narrow channels and encounters strong currents while approaching the surf spots.
3. Problems: The crew faces challenges with navigating the currents and getting swept out to sea while attempting to surf in challenging conditions.
4. Fixes: They learn from their experience and decide to surf in a safer spot with pros after realizing the risks.
5. Anchorages: They anchor near Teahupoo and later in Moria Island, showcasing favorite surf spots.
6. Marinas: They mention a marina near the Tuna surf spot where they initially stop.
7. Rules: Safety precautions are highlighted, such as waiting for the right conditions and not underestimating the power of the waves.
8. Safety Measures: The crew emphasizes the importance of understanding the risks, especially in dangerous surf locations like Teahupoo.
9. Weather: The episode captures the changing swells and the impact on surfing conditions, which influences their surfing experience.
10. Sea Bottom: The episode describes the sharp, live coral reef where the waves break close to the surface, posing risks to surfers.
11. Wildlife Encounter: An extraordinary experience with whale encounters is shared, showcasing the beauty of marine life in the region.
12. Routes: The crew sails from Mexico to New Zealand, passing through Tahiti, showcasing a part of their circumnavigation journey.
13. Currents: The crew encounters strong currents while navigating through the channels, impacting their surfing experience.
14. Other Relevant Data: The episode features the World Surf League contest, interactions with professional surfers like Kelly Slater, and the thrill of spectating elite surfing performances at Teahupoo.